ENCAMPMENT CLOSES

GLENDALE VETERANS HONORED BY OFFICERS IN THE STATE CAMP

One of the most pleasant features of the closing exercises of the Southern California Veterans' association, which closed a ten days' encampment at Huntington Beach, was the presentation of tokens of remembrances to the retiring commander, A. N. Brown and Mrs. Ella Renwick, president of the auxiliary, for the faithful and efficient performance of their manifold duties the past year. The audience then formed in a large circle around the auditorium and joining hands sang "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." Rev. C. R. Norton closed the services by pronouncing in a most feeling and pathetic manner the benediction. The following officers will guide the destinies of the association for the coming year: L. Scofield, commander; W. A. Packard, S. V. C.; A. C. Lewis, J. V. C.; Rev. C. R. Norton, chaplain; Dr. W. D. Hasson, surgeon; T. M. Barrett, adjutant; A. B. Paul, quartermaster; Maj. J. J. Weiler, sergeant-major; C. C. Brown, quartermaster sergeant; W. C. Clark, chief of staff; H. F. Ashley, aide-de-camp; N. M. Holderman, bugler; A. H. Thomas, color bearer; Dr. Crane, entertainment manager; Comrades E. C. Seymour, J. W. Van Horn, O. S. Brookout, W. S. Springer, W. Thompson, O. H. Maryette, W. S. Wilson, T. Galbraith, E. J. Wilson, G. W. Wilcox and G. H. Maxwell, council of administration. Again has N. P. Banks Post been honored, as three of the most active comrades have been elected to positions of honor and trust; Rev. C. R. Norton, re-elected chaplain; T. M. Barrett and Maj. J. J. Weiler.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

In a fit of despondency, Dr. W. M. Moore, physician and surgeon, 1610 West Colorado street, attempted to take his life Sunday at noon in his own residence. Dr. Moore had been in very bad health for some time previous to this attempt and had for some time been under medical treatment. On Sunday he asked his wife to go out on some errand and during her absence slashed his throat with a razor, making a clean cut which extends from ear to ear and practically severs the windpipe. Moore was taken to Thornycroft hospital, where he was given prompt treatment that has resulted in his having a fighting chance for life. However, he is in so precarious a condition that hopes for his recovery are not strong.

J. J. DONOVAN SAYS THE PLAYGROUNDS OF YESTERDAY NO LONGER ADEQUATE

According to J. J. Donovan, architect, Oakland, Cal., in an address before the departmental congress on school administration at the convention of the National Education association at Oakland on Friday afternoon, the purchase of school grounds and the building of school buildings to meet the educational and recreational needs of the age is one of the most important of present municipal problems. Mr. Donovan said in part:

"In the first place, the school grounds of yesterday are no longer adequate for the needs of the community nor of the school of today; neither is the building of a few years ago adequately or fittingly designed and arranged to meet the requirements of modern school management which the advanced thought on school work has shown to be an absolute necessity for the highest efficiency in the training of children. Up to almost the present time it has been customary for school boards to purchase just enough land for a school building and allowing a very small area for school play and very often slighting this feature. Consequently, the municipal governments have had to purchase additional land for playground centers, showing conclusively almost a double expense in the purchase of the two sites, whereas, the purchase of one large site for school grounds will serve for a recreation center as well as a school center. This should indicate that a general survey of a city should be made and tentatively locate large playground centers upon which future schools may be placed in order that these grounds may be adequate for both school and play.

"I would -recommend that play ground commissioners co-operate with school boards in selecting and purchasing school sites. If this is done, then there will be little occasion for misfit purchases, and purchases of land which required a great expenditure of money before this land

BACK TO ARMOR

BRITISH CONSIDERING ARTIFICIAL PROTECTION AGAINST MACHINE GUN FIRE

(Special Correspondence)

There is every prospect that the British army, like the knights of old, will march onto the field in armor clad. In certain recent engagements in Flanders the loss of life has been so great without any commensurate effect that the war office is now reconsidering its former decision not to employ armor. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the famous creator of Sherlock Holmes, who is himself no mean authority in affairs martial, having gone through the Boer war and having made special study of military science, says that in an attempt to rush across 300 yards between the British and German trenches several British brigades were decimated on May 9. "You must either abandon such attacks or you must find artificial protection for the men."

Doyle suggests three-piece suits of steel for the soldiers and also advocates the employment of a "testudo" (tortoise, so called by the Romans in the ancient wars because when the soldiers in advancing to storm a fortified place locked their shields together over their heads, the overlapping plates looking like the defensive shell of a tortoise). He, however, would put the "testudo" on wheels, and under the cover of this fortress would have the men advance. "In this way," he says, "they would arrive at the enemy's line, not as an exhausted fragment, but as a vigorous storming party, with numbers intact.

It is curious to note that armored shields on wheels were invented by Gen. Roy Stone of the British army and were used by the United States infantry during the last days of the Spanish-American war in Cuba, but owing to the rough character of the ground and the predominance of mounted forces in the Cuban campaign, the experiment was a failure.

Four years ago the British war office experimented with a bullet-proof breastplate at Aldershot, where the device gave absolute protection against all rifle and machine gun bullets fired against it at ranges from one foot to 500 yards. It was rejected as adding too much weight to the soldiers' equipment.

It is now suggested that those breastplates should be furnished the men in the trenches. A three-piece suit of tempered steel is also advocated. Such a suit would give protection to the three vital parts of the body—the forehead, breast and abdomen. The headpiece would be similar to that now worn by the French, a highly tempered steel cap, which greatly lessens the danger from shrapnel.

Expression has been freely given in Britain to the criticism that the British war office should long ago have started the manufacture of such protective armor and thus have lessened the appalling slaughter in frontal attacks.

TAFT FOR ARBITRATION

Ex-President Wants International League for Settlement of Disputes

Special Service to Glendale Evening News

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 23.—Ex-President Taft addressing the Washington and Oregon bar sessions today urged the organization of an international league to settle judicially all international difficulties, and eliminate the necessity for armed conflict. Taft said that such a court would bear the same relation to the various nations as the supreme court of the United States does to the individual states.

ABE RUEF OUT TODAY

Former San Francisco Boss to Stay in Mendocino County Three Months

Special Service to Glendale Evening News

SAN QUENTIN, Aug. 23.—Abe Ruef was paroled and left San Quentin early this morning. He entered the auto of a lone friend, who met him at the gate and took him to San Rafael, whence he will go to Mendocino county, where he must remain for three months, according to the conditions of the parole. Ruef has rented a cottage for that period. Moving picture men met Ruef at the gate of the penitentiary and pursued his auto to the railway station.

Alton B. Parker, attending a religious convention at San Francisco, pleaded from the pulpit for more submarines and aeroplanes. Bryan not being among those present, there was no note of dissent.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 23.—Three thousand persons are homeless in the district around this city today. The floods are reported to have caused twelve deaths, but the coroner was unable to verify this report. The flood waters are now receding.

RUSSIA GIVE THANKS FOR GERMAN DEFEAT

SOLEMN SERVICES OF PRAISE HELD IN ALL CATHEDRALS FOR SINKING OF KAISER'S WAR VESSELS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PETROGRAD, Aug. 23.—Throughout all Russia today solemn services of thanksgiving are being celebrated for the Russian naval victory in the Gulf of Riga. The strategy that permitted the kaiser's strong fleet to penetrate the field of mines and then managed to destroy them at leisure is coming in for great praise. The British are also being accorded their meed of praise for their co-operation in this victory, in which the Germans lost a modern superdreadnaught and ten other important naval vessels.

TWO MONTHS' WORK

JULIUS LEHMAN TELLS RESULTS OF COACHING ON SUMMER PLAYGROUND

Before long the summer vacation will be at an end and school work will begin once more. The day of the summer playground will be over and the superintendents will betake themselves to other work. For two months they have labored faithfully in their vocation and have done a great deal to make the vacation profitable to both boys and girls from a physical exercise standpoint. That the boys in particular have profited by the advantages offered them in the three playgrounds goes without saying. If you should ask them they will tell you that they are just getting the spirit of the games when the whole arrangement that has given them so much pleasure and profit comes to an end.

Mr. Julius Lehman, superintendent of the Union high school playground, said to a representative of the Glendale Evening News: "I have taken a great deal of pleasure in my work at the high school playground. On the whole the boys are as fine a set of young people as I have ever met. They have been loyal to their various centers and have developed a healthy rivalry in the field. The four ball teams are just getting into their stride now when they will be broken up. It seems a pity that the superintendence could not be continued in some form all the year round. It would not be possible for me to think of it even if it were arranged to continue the superintendence, as I am going into other work. My suggestion is entirely unbiased by any personal sentiment.

"There has grown up among the boys, even in the brief period of two months, a feeling of solidarity that should be profitable to them in athletics if it should be kept up. I would favor the establishment of a city park and playground combined. If a playground is in any way to be recognized as a civic affair, it should be in use all the year round. The summer playgrounds have just got a good start when they have to close.

"It would be advisable in all future handling of the playgrounds to have them equipped for the activities of the smaller children. The majority of the boys in attendance at the grounds range from ten to sixteen years of age. Attention should be given in a greater degree to athletic field sports. Provision should be made to that end.

"What the playgrounds and their teams need is organization. Leaving games too haphazard is a mistake. In the beginning of the season Hastings Bidwell, superintendent of the Central avenue playground, approached me with the proposition for the formation of a junior baseball league. The league was formed and the three playgrounds took the deepest interest in the games thereafter. The result of that organization has been to bring the boys together in a manner more profitable than ever had been the case before. They have taken the liveliest interest in the games and have improved 100 per cent in their playing.

"Out of the material thus uncovered there are certain to develop two or three good pitchers and catchers. There has been found excellent material for every position in the baseball field and a little further perseverance in the development of that material should give Glendale Union high school and Glendale a very formidable team.

"In lawn tennis there has been similar healthy rivalry. The tournaments have created interest and encouraged practice. The playgrounds have brought to light some excellent tennis experts and with a little more systematic practice two or three of them should give good accounts of themselves.

"There has been a general uplift of athletics during the two months the superintendence has been over the grounds. Soccer came in for its share of that interest and a good team should develop here. Draughts has many votaries, all of whom are eager for further matches.

"On the whole there has been a gratifying spirit of good will on the part of the players of all kinds and ages. Now and then a chronic grumbler or kicker has knocked the work that has been done, but that has been the exception. By far the majority of the boys have helped to encourage the work that has been going on, winning for themselves at the same time excellent reputations in baseball and tennis. I could not desire to meet with a better class of boys anywhere. They are full of the real spirit of fair play and are endowed with a valuable amount of that grit and perseverance without which there is no excellence in athletics.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

SOMETHING MUST BE DONE TO SOLVE QUESTION OF DISTRIBUTION

Someone has said that there is no way of judging the future except by the past. We know that by pursuing a certain course certain results will follow. So we have but to observe and take notice of the results following our present methods, customs and laws which make up our social system to get at least a glimpse of what the future has in store for us. We boast of the unbounded wealth of nature's resources in our local California and we have reason to, and that she can support millions more in all the comforts of life, which is also true. But what are the actual facts of conditions as they are today? In traveling through the rich valleys of the state one can see the unbounded wealth of production, thousands of acres of orchards that have been carefully tilled and cared for loaded with nature's choicest food product being fed to swine or left to rot on the ground, while our villages, towns and cities are filled with willing workers who hunger for the food we allow to waste and yet to price these fruits in the retail stores that are wasting in the nearby orchards by the tons, one would be led to believe that there was a very limited supply.

We have solved the problem of production; why can we not solve the problem of distribution? It should be easier and it certainly is to the great interest of all that it should be solved. Many of us who lavish so much sympathy on the war-desolated countries of Europe fail to realize that the demon of war is operating right here, only on a less gigantic scale. It is made up of the same elements of bitterness, hatred and destruction of life and property. In the San Joaquin valley in the last thirty days more than three hundred thousand dollars' worth of property has gone up in smoke. The wealth destroyed consisted of lumber, canneries and hay, all caused by incendiary fires which were laid at the door of homeless, jobless wanderers. This is some of the fruits of land monopoly. You may say they should not seek revenge in this way; granted. But the facts are they can do it and they do do it. Human nature is human nature and our Civil war fully demonstrated that a course of injustice long persisted in is bound to result in injury to all, the oppressor as well as the oppressed.

Lux and Miller, with their fourteen-million-acre empire, have refused longer to give a hungry man a meal unless they have employment for him. The results of private monopoly of land and the machinery of production we may deplore and "view with alarm," but until we apply the one and only remedy dictated by justice, conditions will continue to grow worse. The past is the proof.

R. GILHOUSEN.

NEIGHBOR ASKING NEIGHBOR

The Evening News subscription contest is developing into a neighborly affair which is favorable for the contestants, the publicity of the city and also helpful to the Evening News.

It is about this way: A citizen who has been a subscriber for the Evening News and knows of its value as a neat, clean little sheet, asks his neighbor, who is not a subscriber, to become a subscriber, and of course it is a very easy matter for a citizen of good standing to influence his neighbor, especially when the act performed is for the neighbor's benefit. This method is the means of adding many new names to the Evening News subscription list.

The contestants have only eleven days after today in which to do their work. That time will soon pass, the votes will all be turned in, the judges will make the count, and the prizes will be awarded. Now is the time for contestants to do the work that will decide what prize you will get at the close of the contest.

The contest is being conducted under the management of the Evening News, no agent being employed. Everybody will get a square deal.

Following is the position of the candidates at 1:30 today:

1—Morse Preeman.
2—Miss Cora Hickman.
3—Mrs. J. C. May.
4—Miss Ruth Wright.
5—Newton McGillis.
6—Mrs. Albert Pearce.
7—Miss Virginia Graham.

"Glendale owes a debt of gratitude to those members of the Parent-Teacher federation who initiated the movement for summer playgrounds. Their labors have resulted in much good."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN RUSSIA

Israel Zangwill, the famous author of "The Melting Pot," "Tales of the Ghetto" and other notable contributions to the literary work of the world, is a Jew and understands the history, sufferings and ideals of that wonderful race better perhaps than most of his people. He is well known and favorably considered by Jews all over the world. In this way he has had exceptional opportunity of becoming acquainted with what is going on in Russia, where the reactionary authorities allow no news to get out except what they desire to communicate.

In a country where there is no freedom of the press, not to mention freedom of speech, and where many newspapers belonging to the various nationalities that make up the heterogeneous Russian empire, are written by hand and are limited in number, it is not easy to communicate to the outside world. Therefore, it is all the more significant when such a man as Zangwill, who has access to exceptional sources of information, has something to tell. He says that Russia's recent defeats are to be attributed in great part to the triumph of reaction in Russia

In the beginning of the war Russia was as one. The whole nation rose as one. The different nationalities sank all their differences and grievances and started out to defend their country. They met with success. Then the reactionaries got into power; the duma was dissolved; popular government at an end; Finland subjected to indignity and repression; the Ruthenians openly flouted and neglected; the Jews persecuted. The natural results followed. The people, at first strongly behind the government, became half-hearted and their condition being perceived by Germany, not only was the campaign in Galicia pressed, but every attempt was made by emissaries to foment the discontent. More than anything else this discontent and the foolish oppression of the reactionaries is to blame for the Russian disasters, coupled of course with the secret blowing up by spies of the great Russian ammunition factories.

Attempts are now being made, Zangwill says, to offset all this result of reaction. The duma has been reassembled, but half-hearted men are still in power and such concessions as have been made to the discontented nationalities, including the Jews, are not likely to allay the strong feeling against the government. How could a half-hearted, ill-organized, worse-equipped nation like that stand against the united, well-trained Germans with a dozen railways bringing up their supplies, with ample ammunition and led by campaign experts? Russia's soldiers may be, as a Cossack leader recently styled them, "lions," but they are indubitably led by asses.

CURTAILING SCOTCH LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Under the Defense of the Realm act, a central board of control in Scotland has been considering the question of limiting the traffic in liquor so as to increase efficiency in war affairs. It may seem somewhat of an anomaly to get temperance reform out of war conditions, which are themselves a great evil, but the old proverb bids us not look a gift horse in the mouth. It is certainly an improvement on the old condition when the hours during which liquor can be sold are to be limited to five and a half per day—between 12 noon and 2:30 p. m. and from 6 to 9 p. m.

That will be change enough for a time as far as those are concerned who use liquor in that land; although saloons in Scotland have for many years been closed entirely on Sundays and shut tight on week days after 10:30 p. m. in most places. It will be interesting to learn what effect the new regulations have on the drinking habits of the land.

One excellent change the board is endeavoring to bring about is the selling of food and light beverages in those establishments where stronger drinks are sold. That is a policy the very reverse of what is encouraged by reformers in the United States, where they have set themselves strongly against the handling of lunches of any kind, free or otherwise, in saloons. In Scotland the reformers say that they have found good results in the sale of food in saloons.

Apparently the whole question on the other side of the water at present hinges on the supply of food and drink to the workers who are assisting in the manufacture of munitions. Canteen accommodations have been provided for those workers, where liquor is not entirely barred, but is supplied in small quantities when desired. It is said that this system is shortly to be extended to all Scottish workshops and shipyards. When the war is over it will be possible to note how much of all these reform measures remain.

ITALY'S LATEST MOVE

There are indications that Italy has opened her eyes to the fact that this war means something more to her than the mere restoration of her lost provinces. Even the task of trying to recapture those provinces is proving much more severe than the Italian government contemplated. With all the valor in the world, the Italian troops are mere flesh and blood and the strongest as well as the bravest are on a level before machine guns concealed behind strong fortifications.

It is true that the Italians are slowly forcing their way along toward Trieste, but between them and that city lie some of the strongest forts in the world, doubly strengthened and secured with miles of trenches and wire fencing. Those forts are all connected with each other by covered ways and it is going to be a herculean task to capture them. Instead of a victorious sweep of the Italian armies over the stolen provinces of Italy, the march has been slow and costly. Every yard in advance has been paid for by the blood of Italy's bravest.

Now the Italian government begins to perceive that there are wider considerations in this war than those with which she set out and which led her to refrain from declaring war on Turkey. It is rapidly becoming a question of national existence for all the nations of Europe who are opposed to the Austro-German alliance. Italy perceives that and has determined to send her men to aid in forcing the Dardanelles and capturing Constantinople. That would naturally put a very different face on the European outlook. It would offset in great measure the capture of Warsaw by the Austro-Germanic forces. Therefore Italy, not lacking other good reasons, has broken off relations with Turkey and will send troops to aid the British and French in their attacks on the Ottomans. This determination is likely to have far-reaching results, as it may determine Roumania and Bulgaria to take the plunge into the torrent of bloodshed that is at present deluging Europe is in condition for either school or recreation. These large school playground centers should contain at least nine to ten acres of land located at various centers in the city or town. The smaller schools should include at least four acres of land. These sizes are given from results of careful study of the needs of play and if this is done, there will be little occasion for additional isolated playground centers. If the schoolground and the public playground are one, it means that the school locker and shower bathrooms will have a more general use, and whenever the city grows to the point of extensive outdoor evening play, which modern illumination will soon permit, then our schoolgrounds and our school buildings will give in return for the expenditure of money the highest and greatest efficiency which the gradually enlightened public are requiring.

NEW PLAYGROUNDS

"Furthermore, the grounds of these sizes will permit from one to two baseball diamonds, football field, tennis, volley-ball and croquet courts, as well as providing protected areas for the small children.

"The wider use of schoolgrounds has developed from the wider use of the building and our schools in the wide-awake communities are no longer limited to five and six hours of use per school day, but have become community centers with their assembly halls, clubrooms, library, shower baths, cafeteria and semi-enclosed playrooms, places where the children and the grown-ups of a community may gather for recreation, education and general enlightenment, ridding the streets of the gangs, developing and directing active blood towards good citizenship. This means that a new spirit has entered into our schools; a spirit permeated with active life, which in turn has brought about a new spirit in school architecture, an architecture which calls for pleasing, inviting buildings, which in turn require the best thought and study in plan and arrangement. Similarly, and in keeping with the spirit of the times, a new element has come into the school teaching force, namely, the teacher who is co-operating and collaborating with the active community worker, helping and guiding the leaders of the communities toward obtaining the wants of the school and the community. The bright minded, thoughtful school man collaborating with the architect has developed a distinct and lasting arrangement to the first unit of the school building, namely, the classroom, in establishing rules for natural light, size and arrangement, giving to the teacher and pupil the best working conditions. Similarly, the other rooms, such as domestic science, domestic arts, manual training, kindergarten, etc., have each in turn been arranged to bring about economy of space and efficiency in management and direction. The composition of these features has developed what might be termed a new type of school. Health and hygiene have been given its thought as well and in consequence our new schools are more opened and freer air circulation is evidenced by the general design and by the type of window now generally used."

By the time the war is over, the British will have to face paying interest on the money borrowed for its prosecution. That will amount to an annual tax of $125 on every adult male in the country. In order to carry on the war the British must borrow at least $10,000,000,000. Ten billion dollars! Fancy what good could be done with that sum. The proper expenditure of such a sum could set the world a hundred years ahead.

EVENING NEWS PRIZES

The prizes offered in the Glendale Evening News subscription list are valuable ones and are worth woking for. This is an age of automobiles and the Maxwell touring car which is one of the prizes offered in the contest is a standard car and is worth four month's steady work on the part of any of the contestants. The Schiller piano is a high class instrument, priced at $400, and could not be bought for less than $360 from standard dealers. The trip to San Francisco will represent from $60 to $75 money value, and the winner of that prize will be given his choice of the trip or the cash. The $50 certificate of deposit is of course worth $50 and is a handsome prize for anybody.

The business college scholarships are valued at $75 each and given out by the Isaacs-Woodbury college, one of the best in the land.

There is an excellent chance for an energetic young man or woman to enter the contest yet and win a scholarship or get a $50 bank deposit or maybe a trip to San Francisco. The right kind of a worker might even stand a chance of getting an automobile or a piano.

While many new names have been added to the Evening News subscription list there are yet 500 homes in which the paper should go. So there is an excellent opportunity for some one to get into the contest and win a good prize.

A friend, a prominent officer in the Salvation Army, has just written us about a remarkable collie, "Joe Jefferies," which marches with the army and manifests the greatest interest in its activities. This dog was bred by the famous pugilist who, our correspondent says, beneath the exterior of the prizefighter, has a child's tenderness of heart toward animals. Human nature is a strange compound.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Louise Landry of Memphis, Tenn., is the guest of Mrs. Kate O'Leary, 420 Franklin court.

Mr. C. F. Parker, 225 South Central avenue, arrived home Saturday evening after a strenuous trip from San Francisco by auto. Mr. Parker reports that the coast route roads are in very bad condition.

Mrs. C. F. Parker, 225 South Central avenue, left for Santa Barbara Monday. She will join Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Lyman, her daughter and son-in-law, in that city, where she will remain for two weeks.

Mrs. Thomas Saeger of 1215 Central avenue, Casa Verdugo, is in Sierra Madre for a few weeks, hoping to get relief from asthma, with which she has been afflicted. Mr. Saeger will go to Sierra Madre Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Weaver and son, Chester, and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Weaver motored to Hermosa Beach Saturday to attend the Nebraska state society picnic. Later in the day they enjoyed a dip in the ocean at Redondo Beach.

The sisterhood class of the First Methodist Episcopal church will hold a business meeting followed by a jolly good time at the residence of Mrs. P. E. Laichinger, 132 East Second street, this evening at 8 o'clock. Ladies are requested to bring their escorts.

Miss Elizabeth I. Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Weaver, 301 South Kenwood street, is spending a few days with her relatives in Glendale. Miss Weaver arrived here Sunday evening from San Antonio, Texas, enroute to San Francisco and Seattle.

Supt. George U. Moyse of 900 West Fifth street has been in the North the past week and a half visiting and attending to business in San Francisco and Berkeley. Hollis Moyse joined his father Saturday and will enjoy several days at the great exposition. They will return home on Wednesday or Thursday of the present week.

MISS EAST HOSTESS

Miss Lola May East entertained a number of friends at her home, 513 Jackson street, Saturday evening with dancing and cards. The decorations were of pink carnations and asparagus fern. Miss Haryot Bayard was fortunate in winning the first prize for highest score at cards. A very dainty two-course luncheon was served during the evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wright, Chas. Carroll, Frank Liddell, Miss Haryot Bayard, Miss Vera Bayard and John Dewar.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

"I will lift up mine eyes to the hills, whence cometh my strength." With these words as a text, Rev. L. J. McConnell lifted up his hearers to spiritual heights Sunday morning when he occupied the pulpit at this church. Beginning with Adam, he took his audience with him up the great mountain peaks of Jewish and sacred history and gave them views of God's love and plan of salvation, which most of them will not soon forget. From Abraham, ascending the mountain with breaking heart to offer up his only son in obedience to God's command, to Moses ascending the mount to receive the law from the hand of God, on to Solomon building the great temple on the mount, the magnificence of which has never been equalled; thence to the mountain peaks of Christ's own life—the temptation, the beatitudes, the transfiguration, the crucifixion and the ascension—these were all portrayed with eloquent words and the Christian was led to the vision of what a wonderful Savior is his!

Altogether, the sermon was one of the best which has been delivered in this church for a long time. Mr. McConnell is not preaching regularly at present, but from the sermon he delivered Sunday it is evident that he should have a pastorate in one of our best churches.

The supply committee has been particularly fortunate in being able to fill the pulpit with such able material during the absence of Mr. Francis, and the congregations have been large and very appreciative for the vacation season. Only one more Sunday remains and although it is not yet known who will preach, it is confidently expected that the pulpit will be occupied.

The attendance at Bible school also keeps up remarkably well, so that the growth in this department should be large with the advent of the fall months.

Prayer meeting will be held as usual on Wednesday evening. As Dr. Dungan has returned from San Diego, the interest in that service is assured. With him present it cannot fail to be helpful and uplifting.

NOTICE TO MY FRIENDS

I am working real hard in the Evening News contest to get the $50 certificate of deposit offered by the First National bank. If you are willing to pay your subscription in my favor, notify me by phone and I will call and get the money and give you a receipt for it.

Thanking you in advance for helping me, I remain

Your hard worker,
NEWTON McGILLIS.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY

Here is a chance to secure double value for your money. The most profitable subscription offer in the Glendale Evening News contest begins today and will last until the close of the lists. If you are in arrears on your subscription and are willing to subscribe six months or one year in advance, Morse Preeman, a participant in the contest, will give you an order for photographs on the Glengarry Studio equal to the amount you pay him on your subscription. For instance, if you owe for six months and will subscribe six months in advance, at the same time paying up your arrears, you will receive an order good for $4.00 in photographic work at the Glengarry Studio. This offer is not only made to subscribers now taking the paper, but is open to new subscribers also. Phone the Glengarry Studio at 1206½ Broadway, Glendale 1000J, or Morse Preeman, 1431 West Third street, Glendale 808. MORSE PREEMAN.

TROPICO

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Coleman of Blanche avenue, accompanied by Mrs. Coleman's sister, Mrs. R. H. Hanna of Tennessee, who is spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Coleman, returned Sunday evening from San Diego, where they motored last Tuesday. A most delightful week was enjoyed visiting the exposition and the many points of interest in and around San Diego.

Mrs. L. F. Pitts of South Brand boulevard left for San Francisco on Saturday, where she will spend the week attending the Panama-Pacific exposition. During the absence of Mrs. Pitts her mother, Mrs. M. Henry, will be the guest of her son and daughter, Trustee and Mrs. C. H. Henry of 502½ North Brand boulevard.

Dr. and Mrs. Hahn of Guthrie, Okla., visited friends in Tropico last Saturday. Mrs. Hahn will be pleasantly remembered as Miss Margaret Nagel, having resided with her parents and sister, Miss Christine Nagel, on North Central avenue, several years ago.

Mrs. J. C. Ware, who has been the house guest of Mrs. Nina Richards on Paloma avenue for several weeks, returned to her home in Randle, Wash., the latter part of last week, stopping enroute to visit in San Francisco.

Mrs. Frank I. Marsh, who has been spending the past fortnight as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. David Wyckoff at their ranch home in Burbank, has returned to her home on North Central avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hough and daughter, Miss Mary Jane Evans-Hough, who have been residing temporarily on Laurel street, have taken possession of their handsome new home on West Tenth street.

C. E. Patterson of Paloma avenue returns this evening from San Francisco, where he has been spending the past week.

Miss Helene Morgan of East Acacia street has returned from a delightful vacation enjoyed at Catalina.

Secretary Lansing Instructs Ambassador Gerard to Report on Arabic

Special Service to Glendale Evening News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 23.—Secretary Lansing today instructed Ambassador Gerard to obtain from Germany an official statement with regard to the sinking of the Arabic. The state department has started a thorough investigation of the affair. Secretary Tumulty, President Wilson's personal secretary, stated today that the course to be pursued by the United States would be decided on when all the facts had been ascertained.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

That the Tigers should have beaten the Lions by the comparatively small score of 9-0 shows that the latter team is improving. The score was small compared with the former results achieved by the Tigers. The Lions' pitcher chanced to be in bad form and consequently many hits were made by the slugging Tigers. The errors, however, were greatly reduced.

Henry Doll threw a number of men out from his position at short. Merritt, Roland Brown and Van Osdale played strong on the infield. Billy Balthis won new honors by pitching the Tigers to this victory, getting six strike-outs and allowing only two hits.

Pacific succeeded in beating the fast Central avenue team, which was running the Tigers close for first place. Pacific's new pitcher, Acosta, is bringing that team to the front. Score, 9-5.

GLENDALE PLAYED BEST GAME, BUT VISITORS BUNCHED HITS WITH SUCCESS

As far as playing went, Glendale had all the better of the game with the College Alumni on Saturday. The game was closely contested throughout. The College Alumni are a fast set of players and Glendale had an opportunity to measure strength against them with satisfactory results. Glendale had fifteen hits to the visitors' eleven, and only five errors to their eight. In fact, Glendale had the best of the game throughout and were unfortunate in the fact that they were beaten.

Whatever may be said of Glendale's playing, however, is no way diminishes the victory of the Alumni. They are a set of excellent players and have experience and generalship behind them that often helps a team to snatch a victory out of the jaws of defeat.

There was a good-sized crowd present. The fans were enthusiastic and testified to their belief in the home team by giving a liberal collection for expenses. The afternoon was delightful and everyone was in good humor. Glendale scored the first run in the first inning. Bill Marple, a former Glendale pitcher, lent his services to the visitors and did valuable work in their behalf. Undoubtedly Bill's sympathy was with the Glendale team; nevertheless, he pitched well for his new friends and retired from the game in the sixth inning with six strike-outs in his favor. Bill says that his feelings in behalf of the home team were too much for him and that his future exploits will all be on the side of Glendale. Bill will be made heartily welcome by the Glendale boys, who have the highest respect for his forty-two-centimeter arm.

In the second inning the Alumni picked up and scored three runs, but Glendale made an effort and tied the score in the fourth. When the sixth inning was reached the excitement was great. The score was 6 to 4 in favor of Glendale and they had a good chance of winning. However, the Alumni ran up their score in the seventh to nine and won.

Bobby Dewar and Hastings Bidwell, pitching for Glendale, held the Alumni team to eleven hits. The fifteen hits of the Glendales testified strongly to the fact that their heavy hitters have not lost their skill. Morse, Fishel, Coole and Bidwell had a good share in the smashing, as the score indicates, and as those hits were made against the best pitchers of the league, it is safe to prophesy that Glendale will have a good chance to head the list.

Coole made two long runs for deep center flies which would have been home runs had he not fielded them. Hastings Bidwell fielded two difficult grounders that seemed impossible until he had them in his deft fingers. Fishel did some clever base running which showed that he was wideawake while on bases.

All players are requested to be on hand Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. for the game with Tropico. Following is the line-up: Crandall, p; T. Verdugo, c; West, 2b; L. Verdugo, 3b; Balthis, rf; Preacher, cf; Fishel, ss; Mike, lf; Padelford, 1b.

Another game is assured for Saturday at 2 p. m.

The line-up on Saturday was as follows: College Alumni—Judson, Mars, Harlow, Day, Reed, McKellar, Damerel, O'Connor, Marple and Harrigan. Glendale—Gabbage, Baker, Morse, Bidwell, Fishel, Padelford, Coole, J. Dewar and B. Dewar.

JAPANESE PICNIC

When the Japanese community sets out to enjoy itself it manages to have a good time. Anyone looking at the large gathering of sons and daughters of Nippon in Verdugo park Sunday could see at a glance that the Japanese are a naturally happy people. There was a large gathering. Everybody was merry and absolute order prevailed. The fun continued to a reasonable hour and many quaint national songs were heard.

BURBANK

C. A. Thompson and wife returned last Thursday from a week's visit at the San Diego exposition. They made the trip by boat and report a most delightful trip.

The Misses Edmonds, who recently moved from Long Beach, are rapidly getting things into shape in their beautiful new bungalow home in the Biggar tract and will soon be at home to their friends there.

E. E. Emerson's new bungalow in the Biggar tract is rapidly nearing completion and Mr. Emerson and family moved out from Los Angeles this week and are now citizens of Burbank.

Mr. C. H. Siveter of Los Angeles will at once build on his lot in the Biggar tract, which adjoins the Grismere residence on the northwest.

Irvine W. Biggar, the rustling proprietor of the Biggar (bigger) Burbank tract, was out Saturday accompanied by a landscape gardener and plans were made and work will soon commence along that line in the planting of palms and other attractive plants. This tract has already many natural attractions, lying as it does on a beautiful slope and facing the Verdugo hills, and these improvements will add still more to its value.

John Luttge and wife and two sons Fred and Ernest, left Sunday by auto for San Diego and are spending the week at the fair.

R. O. Church and wife and Miss Margaret and Mrs. Fischer and Miss Cecelia are in San Francisco this week, having left for that point last Thursday.

Ray Willey went to Downey the last of the week and will visit with his parents while his foot is healing.

The Burbank cannery was idle for a few days last week, the peach season being nearly over and the tomatoes not yet plentiful enough to keep them busy. We understand that Mr. Faxson has already disposed of several large shipments of his canned goods and is much encouraged by the outlook. It is hoped that by another year that a large co-operative cannery may be the result of this auspicious beginning and that a market for all our surplus fruit will thus be made right here at home and thus, too, employment given to many people and Burbank's weekly payroll will be substantially increased.

In a Quandary

Our good friend, C. F. Greenman, is rather worrying these days over the action of a peach that is growing on one of the trees on his home place on Angeleno avenue. Said peach now measures ten and one-half inches in circumference and is still green and still growing, but what is troubling Mr. Greenman is the fear that he will be arrested for trespass or something along that line, as the way the peach is growing it will soon be invading the neighboring lots and Mr. Greenman says he can't buy those lots as he has not got the money. So there he is. He is thinking of taking the matter up with the city trustees and have them pass an ordinance relieving owners of these kind of peaches of the responsibilities attendant thereto.

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF THE BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW

The thirtieth national convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew is to be held in Los Angeles this week, August 25 to 29, inclusive. The sessions are to be held in the big hall of the Bible Institute, located on Hope street near Sixth.

This national churchmen's convention challenges the attention of all loyal men of the church. It is not merely for members of the Brotherhood, but rather is it a great rally for all churchmen of the nation. The promise is for a splendid attendance of nearly, if not quite, one thousand men, including twelve bishops and a large company of clergy. These men, moreover, will come from nearly every diocese and missionary district in the United States and Western Canada. It will be the second national meeting of its kind ever held in the church west of the Rocky mountains, the first being the general convention held in San Francisco in 1901.

This great convention, therefore, is a most unusual opportunity for all churchmen, but especially for those living in California.

At the churchmen's dinner, which will be held at Hamburger's Wednesday, August 25, at 6:30 p. m., sharp, over seven hundred churchmen will break bread together. Mr. Harry E. Andrews of Los Angeles will be toastmaster and the chief speaker will be Bishop C. E. Woodcock of Kentucky, who will speak on "A Man's Religion."—C. I. M.
